We provide investment education and information for members

Local Events: Information meetings, seminars, workshops and discussion groups where you can obtain support from and network with like-minded investors and experts.

Quality Education: Specialised courses provided face-to-face or electronically, allowing you to obtain high quality education at quite a modest cost. Our courses suit all investors, ranging from the beginner to sophisticated investor and cover areas, including stock market investing, estate planning and self managed superannuation funds (SMSF).

Website: The Education and Members Only areas of our website provide education and information across all asset classes and more.

Investors Voice Magazine: Members receive a hard copy of our quarterly Investors Voice which contains quality articles written by financial industry educators and suppliers.

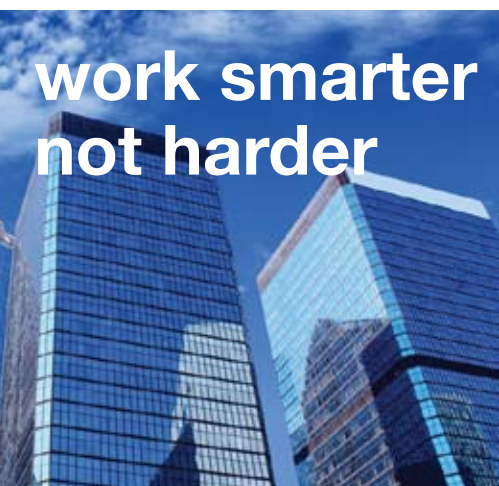

Stay Informed: Our members have access to an independent managed funds report that has been researched and prepared by a group of AIA members. Members also write book reviews to provide independent information for members. Presentation papers from information meetings, seminars and the annual conference provide key insights for your investing strategies, and keep you up to date.

Latest News: Our regular eNews AIA Investor Updates ensure you are kept abreast of the latest markets news and information.

Annual Conference: Our renowned national annual conference provides you with several days of plenary and break-out sessions and further educational materials from leading experts from around the country.

investors helping investors

ACHIEVE your financial goals through EDUCATION, INFORMATION and NETWORKING!

Seven ways the AIA can help you

- 1. Independent: The AIA is a trusted and independent gateway to wealth creation and the investment industry.
- 2. Network: meet and network with other investors. Often the information gained from other investors at AIA meetings can be as valuable as that gained from experts.
- 3. Education: Gain information and education on all asset classes at AIA conferences, seminars and workshops.
- 4. Free online resources: Find information not available elsewhere, on its website www.investors.asn.au - including member reviews on investment newsletters, books, managed funds and more.
- 5. Stay informed: Keep up to date with the latest investment information via the Investors Voice, member newsletters, our annual conference, discussion groups and website material.
- 6. Hands on: Learn how other investors select shares, manage their investment portfolios, keep records and more.
- 7. Support: Be part of an organisation which has a major advocacy role in representing investor interests at government and regulator levels.

The AIA offers independent investment education and networking opportunities through its many face to face activities, publications and website www.investors.asn.au. Catering to both the inexperienced and the more experienced investor, the AIA provides a range of services to suit the needs of all investors, including:

- those new to shares and other investments
- the investor who wants to be sure of the advice they receive
- the share investor
- the property investor
- the managed funds investor
- the SMSF trustee
- those who wish to keep abreast of financial markets
- those seeking Estate Planning information
